The Welch Brothers

Century Boat Company was founded in 1926 in Milwaukee, Wisconsin by two brothers, James and William Welch, who specialized in building wooden plank hulls designed for speed. In 1928, the company moved to Manistee, Michigan.

In the late 1960s, Century began creating composite fiberglass hulls. In 1983 the company moved to Panama City, FL. Century led the popularization of boats with car like attributes.
